W. Barefoot Bankhead is a retired Forensic & Dispute Services practice partner from Deloitte Financial Advisory Services LLP (“Deloitte FAS”). Mr. Bankhead, a recognized expert in financial service industry-related disputes, specializes in providing services to the financial services industry and frequently proffers expert testimony on banking, lending, and securitization matters, opining on damages, reliance and causation issues. Mr. Bankhead has also led numerous investigations focusing on the identification of potential fraud, noncompliance or accounting issues.

While at Deloitte FAS, Mr. Bankhead was assigned as a subject matter expert or forensic accounting specialist on some of Deloitte & Touche LLP’s major financial service industry audit clients. Additionally, he was a frequent speaker on matters of interest to the financial services industry, formerly taught accounting classes at Richland College and has been a guest lecturer at the University of Texas’ McCombs School of Business.

Prior to joining Deloitte FAS, Mr. Bankhead served the financial services industry for over 25 years in various capacities, including as a consultant, auditor, regulator, and in a variety of positions with depository financial institutions.

Professional Experience

Litigation and Dispute

- Provided expert testimony in multiple residential mortgage-backed securitization litigation matters to evaluate and respond to claims that loans in the collateral pool were not originated in accordance with underwriting guidelines and/or representations and warranties in offering documents.
- Retained to review a sample of subprime mortgage loans to determine compliance with underwriting and servicing representations and warranties obtained in the purchase of several subprime mortgage loan portfolios.
- Provided expert testimony on the appropriate accounting under generally accepted accounting principles for subprime mortgage loan portfolios, including the fair value at acquisition.
- Traced cash flows through multiple fraudulent credit cards over a twelve-year period and calculated damages to the card issuing bank.
- Retained by a large international bank as an expert and testified in one of the largest Ponzi schemes in history involving funds raised from investors to purchase litigation settlements at a discount.

- Evaluated the deficit of a failed depository institution and the value of an affiliated depository institution seized under cross-guarantee provisions.
- Reviewed the purchase accounting adjustments related to acquisitions of depository institutions, including allocations to core deposit intangible, mortgage servicing rights, loan and debt securities, and branching rights.

Prior Experience

- Prior to affiliating with Echelon, Mr. Bankhead was a partner in Deloitte FAS for almost ten years. He served as Deloitte FAS's National Banking & Securities Industry Leader from 2008 to 2010. Before joining Deloitte FAS, Mr. Bankhead was a managing director with Navigant Consulting for over nine years. With both Deloitte FAS and Navigant Consulting he served clients in the financial services industry and frequently testified in federal and state courts.
- While in banking, Mr. Bankhead held a variety of positions with financial institutions. He was an audit director for one of the largest bank holding companies in the country, served as chief financial officer (CFO) and a member of the board of directors for a savings bank, and was managing director of mergers and acquisitions for another savings bank. Additionally, Mr. Bankhead spent two years as a professional accounting fellow at the FHLBB.

- As an audit director, Mr. Bankhead was responsible for the development and execution of the corporate audit plan for over 25 separately chartered banks with over $30 billion in assets. Mr. Bankhead then assumed corporate audit responsibility for the bank's National Commercial Banking Group, a $30-billion line of business that included commercial lending and credit administration, asset-based lending, commercial loan operations, syndications, derivative product sales and international trade finance. One of Mr. Bankhead's first assignments as audit director was assisting in the implementation of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991 provisions requiring banks to assess and report on the effectiveness of internal control.
- As a CFO, Mr. Bankhead was responsible for all financial, accounting and investment activities of the institution and chaired the bank's asset/liability committee. He also managed the bank's mortgage banking, real estate and investment management divisions. As a member of the board of directors, Mr. Bankhead served on the lending committee, whose responsibilities included approval of all large lending credits.
- As managing director of mergers and acquisitions, Mr. Bankhead was responsible for identifying acquisition candidates, conducting due diligence and managing the bid process. He performed due diligence on numerous financial institutions including reviews of problem loans and troubled real estate. He also advised the president and CFO on SEC reporting matters, asset securitizations and other capital market transactions.
- During his accounting fellowship with the FHLBB, Mr. Bankhead responded to questions from financial institutions and their auditors on accounting, financial reporting, regulatory and other matters; wrote issues papers and opinions on accounting matters; and provided accounting, auditing and litigation support to the federal banking agency. Additionally, he frequently spoke and lectured on current banking issues at various conferences and seminars throughout the country.
- Mr. Bankhead began his career as an auditor in public accounting where he spent approximately ten years, the last several of which with an international accounting firm primarily serving clients in the financial services and real estate industries.
